

I am writing today to ask the Colorado Oil and Gas Conservation Commission (COGCC) to pass strong statewide rules that prioritize public health, racial justice, the environment, and wildlife. Colorado's communities have had to bear the consequences of adverse impacts from oil and gas development for too long. Oil and gas drilling is also harmful for the lands, waters, and wildlife in the surrounding areas. I respectfully request that you adopt the strongest possible rules in order to fulfill your new mission.

Homes, communities and schools need to be protected by reasonable setbacks from oil and gas operations. No community or person should be considered disposable or be suffering from predatory drilling practices -- equitable rules must be put into place. The same applies to critical wildlife habitat, such as riparian areas. I'd also like to urge you to consult with expert agencies, like Colorado Parks and Wildlife to ensure that wildlife is protected.

Additionally, the cumulative impacts of oil and gas development on greenhouse gas emissions must be addressed. We need rules that will meaningfully address climate change and advance the state forward in achieving its goals set forth by HB20-1261.

Thank you for adopting rules that prioritize Coloradans and our environment!
